The future of law since 1823

BLG started as the dream of one lawyer in Montréal 200 years ago. Since then, we've helped our clients and communities build, innovate, protect and grow, using our collective intelligence and smart anticipation to go beyond what's expected of a law firm.

Today we are more than 750 legal professionals from coast to coast — former Supreme Court justices, next-generation leaders, scientists, engineers, industry experts and internationally respected advocates — each of us providing the nation's founding institutions and innovative start-ups alike with the advice they need to achieve their ambition.

Want to get to know us better? Keep scrolling to...

- Take a trip through 200 years of the firm's history
- Get insights from great Canadian legal and business minds
- Learn how we pay it forward
- Experience what it's like to be part of Team BLG
- Participate in defining what's next for law in Canada

Happy anniversary, BLG!

The future of law series

We sat down with brilliant legal mind, beloved defender of human rights and BLG senior counsel, Madame Louise Arbour, for her take on what's next. Can law shape a better future? Is technology a friend or foe? Who is the lawyer of tomorrow?

Read the interview

BLG Partner Cameron MacCarthy sat down with ZayZoon co-founder and CEO, Darcy Tuer, to offer advice for startups, including why ZayZoon and other aspiring tech businesses are finding success in Calgary.

Read the interview

Hear highlights from BLG's ESG survey plus suggestions for fund managers looking to make sense of confusing times (12 min. podcast).

Listen now

We asked 6 of BLG's up-and-coming associates for their take on the skills needed by the lawyer of the future. Here's what they told us.

Read the interview

BLG's Lisa Chamandy, the first appointed CAIO at a Canadian law firm, talks about gen AI risks, opportunities, and adoption, and what this means for law.

Read the interview

Wisedocs founders Connor Atchison and Jenna Earnshaw sit down with BLG Partner Frazer House to discuss their journey to success, tech innovation in insurance, and essential tips for growing startups.

Read the interview

Discover effective strategies to reduce court delays in Canada and improve legal resolutions for businesses in 5 quick videos from Canada's Law Firm.

Watch the videos

Supporting access to justice and local communities

Pro bono

Through our pro bono work, we make meaningful contributions to the lives of others – preserving and advancing the welfare of communities and their disadvantaged members.

Learn more

Community involvement

Strong communities are the cornerstone of healthy communities, successful businesses and a prosperous country. We have a history of making a difference across Canada.

Learn more