Summer Law Student

 LOCATION

Toronto

Victoria Cassar is a summer student at BLG's Toronto office for the 2025 summer term.

As a student at Osgoode Hall Law School, Victoria is involved in the Disability Law Intensive Program, where she participated in client services and law reform projects. She also serves as an executive member of the Canadian Italian Association, Intellectual Property Society and the Health Law Association at Osgoode. Prior to attending law school, Victoria worked as a research assistant at the Dahdaleh Institute for Global Health Research at York University and interned with Results Canada, a non-governmental advocacy organization.

This past summer, Victoria gained valuable legal experience working at a leading hospital network in Toronto.

Victoria chose to work at BLG for their breadth of practice areas and industries. She appreciated the firm's genuine commitment to fostering student learning in a supportive, collegial environment, demonstrated during the recruitment process.

In her spare time, Victoria enjoys baking, spending time with her family and friends, and trying new restaurants around the city.
