Aleah is an associate in the Disputes group with a focus on health law. Her work incudes both advisory and litigation mandates.

Aleah previously worked as a registered nurse in emergency and specialized acute care settings. Her dual training and clinical experience enable her to approach each case with insight into both the legal and clinical dimensions of health law matters.

During law school, Aleah was a research assistant for Distinguished University Professor, Constance Backhouse, the University of Ottawa's Centre of Health Law, Policy, and Ethics, and Athabasca University's Faculty of Health Disciplines. Aleah travelled to Whitehorse, Yukon for an internship with the National Association of Women and the Law (NAWL) to host a climate protection workshop.
