The IAIS is also consulting on the Common Framework for the Supervision of Internationally Active Insurance Groups (IAIGs) (ComFrame). As such, there are two separate consultation documents.

However, OSFI will propose future changes to the domestic capital framework to ensure requirements are reflective of the risks faced by institutions that do not use internal models for regulatory capital purposes. Industry feedback on these changes will be sought through a separate consultation process.
OSFI [Banks, Bank Holding Companies, Federally Regulated Trust and Loan Companies, Cooperative Retail Associations]	July 7, 2018	Changes to the Capital Adequacy Requirements (CAR) Guideline The main revisions to the CAR Guideline are related to the domestic implementation of the standardized approach to counterparty credit risk and the revisions to the capital requirements for bank exposures to central counterparties as well as revisions to the securitization framework. OSFI has also clarified the capital treatment for right-of-use assets resulting from the adoption of IFRS16 beginning in Q1 2019. This treatment will become effective for institutions upon their adoption of IFRS16. In addition to the above changes:	Comments should be provided by August 31, 2018.

BIS/ Basel [Applicable to banks]	July 5, 2018	Global systemically important banks: revised assessment methodology and the higher loss absorbency requirement The Basel Committee on Banking Supervision (the Committee) has reconfirmed the fundamental structure of the global systemically important bank (G-SIB) framework. 		such firms to reduce their systemic importance. The decision to maintain the core elements of the G-SIB framework will further contribute to the stability of the regulatory environment after the recent finalisation of the Basel III post-crisis reforms. The Committee agreed to the following enhancements to the G-SIB framework: • Amending the definition of cross-jurisdictional indicators consistent with the definition of BIS consolidated statistics; • Introducing a trading volume indicator and modifying the weights in the substitutability category; • Extending the scope of consolidation to insurance subsidiaries; • Revising the disclosure requirements; • Providing further guidance on bucket migration and associated higher loss absorbency surcharge when a G-SIB moves to a lower bucket; and • Adopting a transitional schedule for the implementation of these enhancements to the G-SIB framework. The Committee reconfirmed the three-year cycle for reviewing the G-SIB framework established when it was first published. In particular, the Committee will pay attention to alternative methodologies for the substitutability category, so as to allow the cap to be removed at that time.
