Christian has extensive experience assisting attorneys and paralegals in designing and implementing databases for large volumes of data produced in litigation.

In addition to playing a key role in developing new techniques to process, review and produce data, Christian provides end-user support and training to legal staff on litigation software including:

- Ipro Eclipse;
- Allegro;
- eCapture;
- Doucmatrix;
- Relativity;
- Ringtail;
- Venio; and
- Law Prediscovery.

Before joining the eDiscovery world, Christian worked as a customer support supervisor. After obtaining a degree in Management Information Systems, Christian was promoted to Database Marketing Analyst for a large cable company in the U.S., where he had extensive exposure to different databases.
