Julien focuses his practice on constitutional and administrative law litigation, complex commercial matters and appeal cases, including before the Supreme Court of Canada.

He regularly advises and represents clients with respect to constitutional matters involving the division of powers and fundamental rights and freedoms. His public law practice also extends to various regulatory matters, including with respect to the environment, transportation, official languages and access to information.

Prior to joining BLG, Julien served in 2018-2019 as a law clerk at the Supreme Court of Canada to the Honourable Madam Justice Suzanne Côté. Before studying law, Julien worked as a journalist and researcher for various regional and national media outlets (print, radio and television).
