Victoria Cassar is an articling student at BLG's Toronto office.

As a former law student at Osgoode Hall Law School, Victoria was actively involved in the Disability Law Intensive Program where she participated in various client services and legal reform projects. Also, she was involved in various extracurricular activities including the Canadian Italian Association of Osgoode and the Health Law Association of Osgoode.

Before joining BLG, Victoria gained valuable experience in-house working as a legal intern at a leading hospital network in Toronto. Further, Victoria worked as a research assistant at the Dahdaleh Institute for Global Health Research at York University and interned with Results Canada, a non-governmental organization.

Victoria chose to work at BLG for their breadth of practice areas and industries. She appreciated the firm's commitment to fostering a supportive, collegial work environment and providing strong student mentorship.

In her spare time, Victoria enjoys reading, baking, and trying new restaurants around Toronto.
