Kyle Denomme has a transactional practice specializing in domestic and cross-border private mergers and acquisitions, reorganizations, joint ventures, strategic alliances, and commercial arrangements. He represents clients in many different industries and regularly advises institutional investors and strategic parties on their Canadian transactions. He also advises international clients making greenfield investments in Canada and domestic clients diversifying their businesses into new industries or sectors.

Kyle has developed particular expertise in agribusiness transactions, advising strategic and private equity clients on complex acquisitions, joint ventures, and investments in Canada's agricultural sector. His agribusiness work spans primary agriculture, processing, distribution, and technology companies servicing the agriculture sector. He effectively leverages professionals from across all areas of the firm to provide his agribusiness clients with comprehensive coverage for all Canadian legal matters.

Kyle also acts as external general counsel for many of his clients without legal counsel in Canada, providing legal problem-solving and strategic business advice to help these clients realize their corporate ambitions.
