Ian practices in multiple areas of corporate commercial law. While he primarily focuses on mergers and acquisitions, he regularly acts for clients on a wide variety of commercial matters, including the negotiation and drafting of:

- Technology agreements, such as software license agreements and software-as-a-service (SaaS) agreements.
- Supply and distribution agreements.
- Commercial leases.

Ian also has extensive experience delivering legal guidance and oversight to proponents on all stages of publicly funded infrastructure projects, from the request-for-proposal (RFP) stage through to project completion.

Prior to joining BLG, Ian practiced corporate commercial law at other law firms, and has acted as in-house counsel for a client within the highly regulated telecommunications industry.
