Canada’s North is unique – legal issues and matters can change quickly here. The advice and counsel of a team who understands the complex socio-political, commercial and environmental development in the Arctic and other northern regions is crucial.

Our lawyers represent clients in key industries and government across Nunavut, the Northwest Territories, Yukon and the upper regions of many provinces.

Our multidisciplinary team collaborates on legal matters, including business transactions and disputes, to develop northern-specific advice and recommend practical solutions for managing business, regulatory issues, and litigation.

We also advise municipalities, governments and Indigenous organizations on a range of legal issues and legislative areas.

Our range of expertise includes:

- disputes (litigation)
- mining
- oil and gas
- marine, air and land transportation
- telecommunications and broadband
- procurement
- health services
- education
- climate change and green energy initiatives
- environmental, wildlife management and other permitting and approval processes
- Indigenous law and land claims issues
- leasing and property rights
- constitutional issues and legislative review
- regulatory regimes and tax
- labour and employment
- wills, estates and financial services
