

Surging through 2021 to 2022: BLG's Vision of the Client Focused Reforms

February 11, 2021

Legal services for registrants

Through the Client Focused Reforms, the Canadian Securities Administrators (CSA) expect registrants to better align their interests with the interests of their clients. The new rules and CSA expectations regarding conflicts of interest and related enhanced conflicts client disclosures will become effective on June 30, 2021, with the balance of the rule and policy changes becoming effective on December 31, 2021.

With BLG's Vision of the Client Focused Reforms, we can provide you with the full range of legal and advisory services that you may need as you implement the Client Focused Reforms. Our tailored services related to conflicts of interest, client disclosure, and KYC and client onboarding and training programs are described in our updated PDF booklet that you can download below.

- BLG's Conflicts Compliance Services will enable registrants to develop a compliance framework for identifying and managing material conflicts in the best interests of their clients and disclosing them as required.
- BLG's Client Disclosure, KYC and On-Boarding Compliance Services will enable registrants to develop an approach to comply with the disclosure requirements and KYC expectations, in ways that are integrated with the registrant's on-boarding packages for new clients, its on-going interactions with clients and its reporting packages for existing clients.
- BLG's Training Programs Compliance Services will enable registrants to develop a training program that is scaled to a registrant's business model, size and complexity to ensure that registered individuals, executive and other personnel understand their roles and responsibilities under the Client Focused Reforms and related securities laws.

There are a number of resources available to help you understand the requirements and regulatory expectations and these are described in our booklet, along with our plans for providing continuing updates to our clients and friends on the significant topics of the day.
